

Worksheet 05: Did you chase your dreams?

Now take these lists and ask yourself "Did I chase my dreams? Has my career so far given me anything that I wanted when I was a kid?" You might be surprised to learn that yes, in fact, you are not as far away from your heart and soul as you thought you were. Our personality is a powerful driver throughout our life. There are countless small decisions we make that take us down one path versus another. Most of you will realize that your dreams are actually not that far out of reach. With just a slight shift in your job, or a new industry, you might find exactly what you want in your job.

Did you become what you wanted to become? If not, why not:

Are you still attracted to these same things? Would you still like to pursue a career in those areas?

